

Community Support

May 4-6, 2017

NASA will be joining the town of Mars once again as we ring in the new year on the planet Mars. Organized by a local volunteer committee, the event takes tens of thousands of dollars to execute. In its inaugural year, approximately 10,000 people attended and 2017 is forecasted to be even bigger! Speaking of forecast, Mike Harvey, Chief Meteorologist of WTAE and local Martian, is our Honorary Chairman.

Want to help support your community, but a sponsorship just isn't in the stars for you? Contributions of any amount are welcome and your name will be listed on MarsNewYear.com as a thank you for your support.
